

Health Coach

- Several different FTE as part of Access and Choice model
- Based in General Practice settings working with the practice population
- Hutt Valley based

Te Awakairangi Health Network are looking for Health Coaches to be part of an exciting new behavioural health model of service delivery. As part of a Greater Wellington Wellbeing Collaborative we are implementing a new model of service delivery which will place health coaches within a general practice as part of the practice team.

The Health Coach will work alongside Health Improvement Practitioners and support workers to provide intervention to clients who are experiencing distress due to thoughts, feelings or behaviours.

If you are looking for a new way to support people to achieve healthy lifestyles through sustainable change then this is a role for you.

We can offer full training and a comprehensive orientation, regular supervision and professional development as well as the opportunity to be part of a new team working to support the needs of the Hutt Valley population.

For more information please contact Carrie Henderson carrie.h@teahn.org.nz

Further information, including a Job Description and an Application for Employment form, is available from recruitment@teahn.org.nz or phone 04 566 5320.

Applications close at 5.00pm Monday 22 June 2020.

Only applicants with New Zealand residency or a valid NZ work permit for the full term of employment will be considered.
